John P. DeCamp of Cincinnati
Points Out Taxes Are Slight

ENROLLMENT IS HIGHER

John P. DeCamp has written The Gateway concerning the Cincinnati University, which is a municipal institution, urging that the movement toward municipality which has been made recently should be carried on as strongly as possible.

Taxes Are Slight

Mr. DeCamp points out from The News that the Cincinnati organization is not wholly supported by taxes. Fully two-thirds of the cost of operating such a school is paid by student fees and endowment. In four years the Cincinnati college grew in enrollment from 4,759 students to 10,280.

Inspiration Given

The late Dr. Charles W. Eliot of Harvard University once said of a municipal university, "It has greatly served simultaneously the children of the city and its neighborhood, and also the government of the city itself; the children by making it easily accessible to them liberal and professional education of higher order, and the city government by inspiring them an intelligent interest in the safe conduct of liberal and professional education in its local applications."

The Herald pointed out that the money brought to Cincinnati by students far exceeded the cost of their education.

The Gateway offers this service to Omaha in accordance with its advocating greater institutions of learning.

Wandsheer Will Direct New Band of Twenty-Five

Under the direction of N. J. Logan of the Conservatory of Music, the University of Omaha now has a complete twenty-five piece band composed of university students. Joe Wandsheer has been chosen to be drum-major for the organization.

The game with Tarkio, Saturday, will find the band equipped with new uniforms. It is planned that the band will travel with the football team to every game. Each member is receiving a small financial compensation in return for regular attendance at rehearsals and at all games.

Joe Wandsheer, the student director and drum major of the newly organized University Band, is a former voice pupil of Professor Noel J. Logan, when he was teaching in Dubuque, Iowa. One year ago he won first place, in a vocal contest, as the best baritone in the state of Iowa. He has had years of band experience having been assistant director in the Dubuque High School and in western Nebraska.

Has Ability

Professor Logan is enthusiastic about Mr. Wandsheer. "He has much ability as a director and is a very fine trumpeter. I believe he will make a success of the band through his directing."

He is now directing the choir at the Plymouth Congregational Church. Last summer he was soloist with Buddy Fisher's orchestra of Chicago, traveling with them on their summer tour.

The membership consists of the following: Trumpets—Hoyt Griffin, Richard Reed, Fred Honorden, Miss Carey, Maxine Delavan, and Marjorie Lyle; Clarinets—Nestor Shlan- ta, Don McMahon, William Hoffus, Mabel Shively, Edward Holub, and Quentin Molins; Trombones—Walter Ottman, and Helen Jane Dunkin; Alto Lawrence Anderson, Cecil Bullister, Harold Bastron, and Max Wainwright; Baritone—Gertrude True and Lewis Foster; Basses—Royal Hipwell and Gordon Quiller, and Drama Kenneth Hubler and Robert Hay and Joe Wandsheer, student director and drum major.

CURRENT EVENT CLASS UNDER A. KUHN HAS 300

Professor Albert Kuhn has been informed by the History section of the Women's Club that he will have a class of from 150 to 200 women in a monthly discussion of current events.

A weekly forum on public events will also be conducted by Professor Kuhn at the Y. M. C. A., commencing October 7. Besides these two current event discussions, he is teaching an extension course in American History every Tuesday evening. The class is composed of ten teachers.

Dean James Urges Broader Vision; Howard Is Presented

LOGAN LEADS SINGING

Students, faculty members, trustees, and friends of the University of Omaha gathered for the first assembly of the school year, Wednesday, Sept. 18.

Community singing led by Noel J. Logan, director of the Conservatory of Music, was followed by two harp solos, "The Pirates March" and "Mazurka" played by Miss Irma Clow. Dr. H. D. Talbot, of Dundee Presbyterian Church, led in the devotions of the morning.

In making the address of welcome Dr. E. W. Emery, president, spoke of the growing idea of the university, concluding: "Desks, books, and papers do not make a university. It takes a faculty and student body alive and eager to move forward to do that. My admonition at the beginning of this year is—let us work together with the will and purpose to succeed."

After a short address, in which he told of the broader vision lying before the student in university, Dean W. Gilbert James introduced the faculty members to the assembled students.

Alum Gives Advice

George C. Pardee, representative of the alumni body, urged the students to represent Omaha University worthily at all times. "You students carry the name of the university on your lapel wherever you go," he stated, "and must remember to conduct yourselves so as to reflect credit upon your school."

During the short pep meeting which concluded the assembly, Warren J. Howard, head coach of the football squad, and A. J. Dunlap, each gave short talks on the prospects of the football season and the ticket drive then in progress to finance the season.

Vartanian Leads Y Group Meeting

The first Y meeting of the new year was held on Tuesday morning, Sept. 24 at ten o'clock in the Conservatory. Dr. V. H. Vartanian of the Religious Education Department read the opening devotions.

"Realize Power"

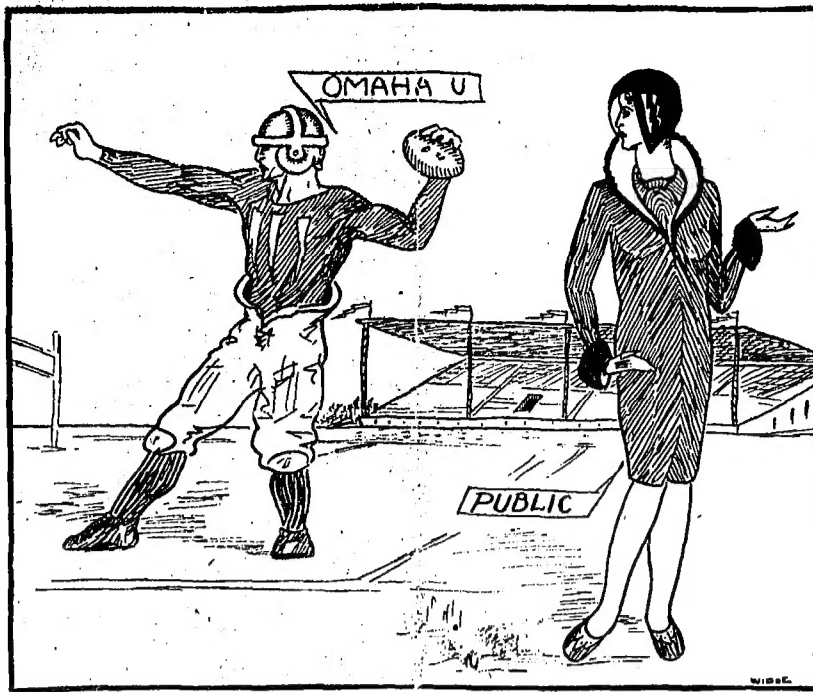

"Religion is really contact with a Personality," stated Dr. Vartanian pre-facing the reading from Matthew 4: 8-22. "The greatest thing which the Y organizations wish to accomplish this year is to get acquainted with Jesus, and to realize the power of his personality and then to pass that on to others."

Vivian Krikel and Harry White explained the programs and aims of the Y organizations for the coming year. All students were urged to avail themselves of the opportunity offered in Y meetings.

PRE-MEDS ELECT

The first meeting of the Pre-Med club was held on Thursday, Sept. 24, at the Science Hall. Officers of the club were elected.

Extension Classes Are Newly Opened

Registration for extension work at the University for night or Saturday classes has made little progress according to Irwin A. Hammer and L. O. Taylor, Directors of the Extension departments.

Schedule Is Revised

A revised schedule is now out in which, in addition to classes offered at Joslyn Hall, there will be classes at South high, Technical high, and in Council Bluffs. Teachers in Washington county have petitioned for two classes to be organized in their district.

Registration will continue through the week of September 30, after which date, special classes may be arranged by request.

Department of Art Has Great Outlook

The Department of Art is starting on a most prosperous year," according to Miss Agusta Knight, head of the section. The enrollment is larger than ever before," she stated, "and all of the students seem very sincere in the work ahead of them."

Two new classes have been added to the schedule of this department, one a Junior Sketch Class, the other a course in Interior Decorating. The Sketch Class is for children and is given by Miss Knight on Saturday mornings. The class in Interior Decorating is offered at night school and is taught by J. B. McGill. Mr. McGill is a professional interior decorator and has also had several years of foreign training.

and faculty at the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. reception augurs much for the spirit of good will which has pervaded the campus from the very beginning of this semester.

"Through the pages of The Gateway, the voice of the campus, I wish to express my sincere appreciation of the splendid co-operation which has marked these days at the beginning of this semester. Let us all look forward to one of the best years that the University of Omaha has ever had and work together as men and women with the will to achieve."

ERNEST W. EMERY.

Forty Members in Honorary Pep Club

"Rah! Rah! Rah! Team!" will be heard in real spirit now at the University as plans are being formulated for the reorganization of last year's Pep club with forty students, membership honorary.

This group will be responsible for directing all cheering, pep rallies and field stunts pertaining to the student support of all activities.

Will Travel

The matter of uniforms, trips with the team and all such things will depend upon the enthusiasm and loyalty to the purpose of this organization, according to L. A. Hammer, sponsor of the group.

Seven Assistants At Science Hall

In order to more efficiently manage the increase in the enrollment this year in the Science Department at Science Hall, seven assistants have been chosen. Miss Nell Ward, instructor in the Chemistry Department, will be aided by the following: Alice Hamer, Harold Bastron, Glenn Malm, Albert Lindblad, and Dewar Victor.

The Physics division under the direction of Mr. T. S. McKibben will have Earl Hargrove as an assistant. Miss Gilmore will again be assisted by Samuel A. Manolis in the Biology Department.

Pirate Theme at Annual Reception

Two Hundred Present At Y
Affair; Schlick
Welcomes

TRADITION OBSERVED

Nearly two hundred students, faculty members and visitors were present at the Y reception held in the University Gym on Friday evening Sept. 20.

The interior of the Gym was decorated to represent a pirate ship. Wide streamers of red, white, and black bunting were draped from the rafters. The lights were subdued by clusters of various colored balloons while life preservers were hung about the balcony.

Guests Are Received

Evelyn McDonald's orchestra entertained as each guest passed through the receiving line. Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Emery, Dean and Mrs. G. W. James, Dr. and Mrs. V. H. Vartanian, Mrs. Rene Stevens, Miss Cleo McGuire and Stanley Schlick were members of the receiving line. As each guest reached the end of the line he received a small book in which "first impressions" were to be written.

Schlick Welcomes

Harry White, as master of ceremonies, then introduced Stanley Schlick, Y president, who gave an address of welcome to the students and new faculty members. Rachel Dalton, member of the Freshman class, responded to the welcome.

Hudson Sings

The Melody Boys trio sang several romantic numbers which were well received. Herbert Hudson, well-known to those who attended assemblies last year, sang three selections accompanied on the banjo by himself. Grace Abbott presented her pupils in four numbers. Gladys Mann gave a reading with a humorous ending, after which the orchestra played two classical numbers and refreshments were served.

Mabel Shively and her assistants were in charge of the refreshment booth. Elma Gove and Harry White were in full charge of the Reception.

Honor Newcomers With Faculty Tea

A tea, in honor of the new women of the faculty and the wives of the masculine members, was held at the home of President Emery, Thursday, Sept. 26, from 3:30 to 5:30. Fifty persons were served during the afternoon. Hostesses were Mesdames Ernest W. Emery, Gilbert W. James, Noel J. Logan, Irvin A. Hammer, Alexander J. Dunlap, Earl Sullenger, Arthur Thomsen, and Rene Stevens.

The guests of honor were the Mesdames Gertrude Kincaid, Ida Long, Leona Gilmore, Dorothy Manger, and the Mesdames Mildred Gearhart, Hugh Orr, Lester Taylor, and A. M. Johnson.

Autumn flowers were used in decoration, and 75 guests were called.

EUROPEAN TOUR IS SUCCESSFUL

Members of Omaha Party See
Graf Zeppelin at Close Range

KUHN WILL REPEAT TRIP NEXT SUMMER

Will Include Religious Play
Given Once Every
Ten Years

Since the first European tour sponsored by the University of Omaha was a decided success, Professor Albert Kuhn, of the History and Language Departments, is planning another trip in 1930. One person has made definite arrangements to be with next year's group of tourists.

Meet Religious Players

Those who went on the trip led by Professor Kuhn this summer agree that they had a most educational, as well as enjoyable, vacation. The historical memorials of England, the neatness and thriftiness of Holland, the vigor and enterprise of Germany, the beauty and progressiveness of Switzerland, the gay sights and amusements of Paris, and the art of Italy, are subjects upon which those who joined the tour are enthusiastic. Members of the party saw the famous Graf Zeppelin at close range. The tourists met actors in the religious play at Oberammergau, and dined with the actor who played Judas Iscariot. This play is presented at ten year intervals and will be an outstanding feature of next year's tour.

Dr. Emery greatly enjoyed the trip. He has given talks upon it at several business clubs.

Stevens Leaves Tour

Mrs. Rene Stevens left the party at Paris, spending two weeks at Elsinore, Denmark, attending the World Conference of the New Education Fellowship, and another week studying adult education in England.

Myers Is Tourist

Principal Myers, of Thomas Jefferson High school, Council Bluffs, a U. of O. tourist, was one of the leaders of the Geneva Educational Conference.

Vested Choir Meets; Logan Has Positions For Many New Voices

The Vested Choir of the University met at noon on Thursday, September 19, under the direction of Professor Noel J. Logan. Students of last year and those entering this year were well represented.

According to announcements by Professor Logan, secular numbers will be added to the repertoire of the choir, although sacred selections will be of primary importance. It was announced by the director that an effort would be made by the choir to present a cantata at Christmas time, with another possibly to follow later in the year.

Professor Logan desires to have a group of sixty voices, including eleven first sopranos, seven second sopranos, six first altos, eight second altos, eight first tenors, six second tenors, six first basses, and eight second basses. As yet there are several places to be filled, and anyone interested in joining the organization is urged to see Professor Logan at once.

FRIDAY'S ASSEMBLY

Since the first football fray of the season was to take place on Saturday, Friday's assembly opened with the song "The Fight Is On." The meeting was given to practice yells led by Joe Kubat and Paul Fay.

Mr. A. J. Dunlap made known the plans for a small dormitory for the football fellows, and smilingly mentioned (to the girls) that "bed pillows and pictures" would be appreciated to make it "seem like home."

A REAL OUTLOOK

Never before in the history of the University of Omaha came such a team as fought Norfolk last Saturday at League Park. Never before came such continuous cheering from the Omaha stands. Never was there a team such as the one we have on the field this season.

The past teams were fine. The present team is perfect. The cheering in other years was terrible. The cheering Saturday was fine. It could have been better. It is rumored that at least two persons were not helping in the cheers, namely the referee and the pop-corn man.

Saturday's game found the University of Omaha on the map. Newspaper men cast wondering glances at the bleachers, joined in the cheering, and gave the Omaha team another boost in their next write-up. Of such things come success.

Everyone deserves to be congratulated for the showing made Saturday. Players, coaches, students, faculty, band members, directors, cheer leaders, and everyone at all connected with the season, take a bow.

REGARDING GREEKS

Rush week for the first semester of the 1929 session is over. Preferences have been turned in and the Pan-Hellenic Council has given out invitations to the new and innocent pledges. A few students have decided to go through the university "on their own" and will join the ranks of the "Barbs" as they are dubbed by the Greek associations. A few weeks more and we will see various pledges scurrying thither and yon with considerable impediment in their care. Shoe-shines will be given freely and the air will be full of "aba kadabra" expressions.

With eight active organizations on the campus, it would take the care of an all-seeing eye to regulate each person so that peace could reign supreme. It would be impossible for one human to adjust, humor, and console the petty affairs of every growing student.

It is the duty of students to combine themselves sensibly so that conflicting affairs will harmonize with the purpose of the university. It is the business as well as the duty of the faculty to help in all ways.

The Greek organizations undoubtedly carry the greatest combined influence on the Omaha campus. For this reason we expect to see Greek members foremost among those who volunteer to lead the student body. The man who takes it upon himself to forget small affairs such as rival jealousy between similar organizations, is the man who will make a place for himself and his associates in this world.

ON MAKING FRIENDS

"Blessed is the man who has the gift of making friends; for it is one of God's best gifts. It involves many things, but above all the power of going out of one's own self, and seeing and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in another man," declares Hughes.

The art of making friends is a sort of prerequisite to the person who would be successful in life. Preparation for success in life take place in college. He who is wise will take full advantage of the opportunity offered by exercising what gift he may have in the way of making friends with the new acquaintances he will meet during his college days.

WELCOME

The Gateway, as a medium of expressing student opinion, takes this opportunity to welcome the new members of the faculty to the University of Omaha.

Food For Thought

No University is better or worse than the students who go to make it up. We have a good University, don't you think so?

"Do you know," says Emerson, "the secret of the true scholar? In every man there is something wherein I may learn of him; and in that I am his pupil."

Society rests to some extent upon science but more upon conscience. Civilization is first and foremost a moral thing. Without honesty, without respect for law, without respect for duty, without the love for one's neighbor, the whole thing falls into decay.

There is one line we never get tired of—the football line. Norfolk got tired of it, however, having to bump up against it continuously.

South Omaha Gains Much Publicity Through Confessions of New Student

SO THIS IS COLLEGE

After five and a half years of high school—and math, I was told that I needed a bit of finishing and polishing via the Emery. Taking a cursory look into the mirror, I curse—I mean I became certain of the fact. So here I am.

But let me tell you how I got here. Street car, you say? Nope, Chevie! But getting down to brass tacks and otherwise banging the nail on the head—let me proceed. To get here required funds; to obtain the required funds, I needs must work. I did work, I mean I wrestled sheep entrines for a big eastern capitalist. Sheep entrines? Big eastern capitalist? Why of course you guessed it! This baby's from South Omaha!

Ah, South Omaha, out where the smile's a little broader, out where the feet are a little flatter, out where the smell's a little—as I was saying, out where a man's a man. (To those in doubt as to the whereabouts of South Omaha, I would say, somewhere south of Dodge St., west of the river, north of Sarpy county and east of Ralston, Millard and other points west.)

Summing up, I might say that I am here by the grace of an eastern capitalist, but that in its way is nothing enviable.

The first thing of course was registration. It was there I met my first difficulty. My advisor wouldn't let me take all the subjects I wrote down. Maybe he doesn't know what a smart fellow I am. Chances are he doesn't, because he's the only one I didn't tell. My friends always did say I'm modest.

I signed up all right and then I was ushered into a room where they had rigged up what looked like a trick camera to me. The matron, I mean the lady in charge, told me to print my name in full on a piece of blackboard. I did that. She then placed me behind a table and my monogram in front of me and started fooling with the camera. I was uneasy about something and was about

When your ivory flesh is dust
And the whirling world is still
What will it matter then
That you have ever been?
Your bright caressing hair
Your long, soft arms of white
That fragrant, shapely ear
Peeping into sight—
When you are dust
And the world is still—
What will it matter then
That they have ever been?

Empress or slave—
You will be forgotten
Your power, beauty, fame—
Unless to the stars of heaven
New brilliance you have given—
Unless to the pyre of nature
You have given flame.

CLAY BANK

Green arms of plumed tree-tops
Drowsing off across the way,
And hungry, muddy water
Sucking at the clay.
Clay bank, dirty yellow—
Water, dirty brown,
With old dead arms of fallen trees
Drifting gently down.
I'm tired of lawns and gardens,
Of cultivated parks and rows,
And drives of stiff, prim, well-pruned trees,
The like that nature never knows.
I want to see the sunlight
On a bank of yellow clay,
And hungry, muddy water
Sliding soft away.

one, also bad if the Prof. understood me, occurred in German class. As is the custom, the teacher reels off a few phrases of foreign language to either impress or bewilder the new student. The professor stood before the class, smiling. Then came the torrent.

"Wir sind jetzt in Klass zimmer. Verstehen sie Deutsch? etc."

I for one, however, was neither impressed nor bewildered by that volley so I spouted back at him:

"Ja, ja Herr Professor, beaux yeux. Dominus Vobiscum! Alium quercum execute!"

I didn't spend five and a half years in High school for nothing! But regardless of my classroom impressions, I believe I shall get along swimmingly.

That is enough about classes. I have yet to tell of my outside or campus impressions.

Talking about the campus, I very nearly wrote a popular song hit entitled: "Camp Us Out On the Campus." It would have been the Collegians' answer to "The Cowboy's Lament," otherwise known as "Bury Me Out on the Prairie—." But I didn't.

Digression is an evil, so I will proceed—on the campus.

Naturally my first thought was to look for the genius collegiate. According to Hoyle and logic, I must seek the lordly Senior. But no—Hoyle and logic were wrong. The genius collegiate is gaudily and flamingly impersonated by the lowly Freshmen. Needless to say, I became acquainted with the Senior class on masse.

Standing and rubbering with a group, I felt the call of the weed. Lighting a fag, I exhaled deliciously and brazenly into the face of one of my fellow rubberers. I could see it was disagreeable to him.

"Say, bub," he asked, "What brand do you smoke?"

"Camel—why?" I replied.

"Quite strong for a diminutive like you, isn't it?"

I was at my nonchalant best when I answered him with only: "South Omaha—"

I must have impressed him because then he began asking questions like the difference between a pig and a shout, the difference between a pork and a beef briquet, whether South Omaha is composed wholly of U. S. Y. of ceteris.

When the cross examination was over, they started to tell me what a democratic institution this school is, the virtue of the Greek organizations, et al. Feeling that I, too, should share in this laudatory conversation, I said very, Oh, so very nonchalantly:

"Yes, quite democratic except for haps on the point of Greeks. Why discriminate. Why not a single fraternity composed of the entire student body. Of course the subject of honor organizations is entirely different. Why the secrecy and depilatory practices? I think that they were rampant in the dark ages. Why welcome a new born brother or sister with a two foot paddle and other nonsensical pranks that wouldn't fit in with the scheme of a grade school hiking club. Why not—?"

But my audience had left me to address ozone.

"Well—" I shrugged my very nonchalant best and leaned against the lamp post. "If this is the way they act—"

But what's this. My audience was returning and they had a new member in their midst. The newcomer addressed me:

"On behalf of my fellow hoop de doops I bid—"

But I didn't wait for him to finish, I drawled in my absolutely best non-chalance:

"That's all right, buddy, I accept. And by the way, what's the call letters of your frat, anyway—"

I don't think college will be so bad.

With Dr. Emery

Since Dr. Emery's return from the European Tour in August, he has been very busy. He pronounced the tour a decided success and believes it will have a far-reaching effect on the University.

On August 25, Dr. Emery substituted for Mr. Brady of the First Methodist Church at the morning service. His topic was "The Responsibility of Life."

September 1, he held the morning service at the United Brethren Church. Thursday, September 6, Dr. Emery spoke at the Dundee Presbyterian Church on "Building With the Young People."

The first regular meeting of the faculty was held September 10. Dr. Emery gave the address of welcome to the new members.

September 16, he attended the meeting of Phi Sigma Phi at the Elks' Club, where he was made an honorary member and presented with a pin of the fraternity.

Dr. Emery was a guest at the dinner given at the Elks Club by Alpha Sigma Lambda on Tuesday evening, Sept. 17. The same evening he attended a party given by Theta Phi Delta at King Lake.

Thursday, Sept. 19, Dr. Emery was again guest of Phi Sigma Phi at a theater party, followed by a midnight lunch.

Friday evening, he attended the Y. M. and Y. W. informal reception in the Gymnasium and on Saturday evening he gave a short address at the final rush party of Phi Sigma Phi at the home of Paul Davis.

Thursday noon, Sept. 26, he attended the regular meeting of the Omaha Council of Churches of which he is a member. The same afternoon Mrs. Emery and Mrs. James entertained new faculty members at a tea in the Emery home, 5618 Florence Blvd. In the evening Dr. and Mrs. Emery entertained the Senior Class at their home in honor of Dr. Emery's birthday.

Norfolk Falls Under Omahan Onslaught

SLIPS THROUGH ONLY TOUCHDOWN IN FIRST QUARTER; OMAHA IS VICTOR, 28-7

HUFF HAS HARD TIME IN PULLING SQUAD OUT OF SLUMP

KUNCELMAN PUTS AIR ATTACK OVER IN GREAT SHAPE WHILE SALES PLAYS GOOD DEFENSE.

SHEPPARD FRACTURES COLLAR-BONE

Getting off to a bad start in the first game of the season by allowing Norfolk to slip in the first touchdown, Omaha's gang of rip-snorting football chasers pulled out of the hole to defeat the visitors to the tune of 28 to 7, at Western League park last Saturday.

Klug Scores
Klug of Norfolk, Neb., nearly ruined the whole affair by intercepting an Omaha pass just as the game opened, and tearing down the field in front of some 850 startled fans to score the first and only touchdown for his bunch that afternoon. Lulow did his bit for Norfolk by making the kick good. Things looked terrible for Omaha. A. J. Dunlap fished in his pocket for a cigar and forgot all about his poetry. Then Bennie Huff finally got the boys together and decided to quit fooling around. Three first downs were gained after some sixty yards of scrimmage. Then came considerable jiggling around the field and Omaha showed the company that jiggling does not hurt one bit. It did hurt the Norfolk gang and weakened the line so completely that Huff had the time of his life a little later on in getting away with 15 and 20-yard dashes.

Mrkvicka Connects

The second quarter was well under way when Mrkvicka connected with a pass from Longmeyer and shagged down to the Norfolk eighty-yard line. Huff then claimed the honors and skirted left end for a touchdown. Longmeyer tossed the hog-hide for the extra point.

With the start of the third quarter, Norfolk would have done well to pack up and start for home. The heavier Omaha outfit had it all over the other boys from then on. After punting a little and breaking even, Omaha turned the game over to Kuncelman and Huff, who jockeyed the ball to the one yard line from mid-field. Holding everything until the last down, Kuncelman did a jack-knife over Norfolk's left tackle for another touch-down. Not content, Kuncelman took it upon himself to make the extra point via the airway route and did.

Kuncelman Accommodates

The last period found Bobby Streitweiser ready to speak his piece on the Norfolk goal line. Kuncelman, always accommodating, tossed him a nice pass and Bobby relayed the ball over the line. Norfolk forgot to be careful on the line and eagerness to be up and at Omaha found the visitors off-side which same gave Omaha the extra point without effort.

Just before pulling the final gun, Klug of Norfolk heaved a long pass over to one of his backs but was felled by John Barber, who grabbed the thing and traveled 35 yards for the last touch-down of the battle. Streitwieser place-kicked the final point for Omaha and left the tally at 28.

Sheppard Is Hurt

Sheppard, first-choice fullback, came up from the bottom of a pile-up during the game and sustained a fractured collar-bone.

Quinn's Quips

JOHN W. QUINN

On September 11, the University of Omaha squad of football warriors, thirty-seven strong, returned to Omaha after a ten days' camp at Cowles Lake. This squad is the largest one to turn out in the history of the University. At camp fundamentals and conditioning were stressed, and upon returning, Coach Warren Howard and his assistants began the work of definitely molding the team.

Howard Cuts Squad

One of Coach Howard's first moves was to cut the squad to thirty-four, thus giving himself just three full teams to work with. Assisting the head coach are John Roberts, all conference end in 1928, and Phil Rickabaugh, former Wayne lineman. Roberts has taken over the task of coaching the wingmen, and Rickabaugh has been assigned to mold the linemen. Head Coach Howard has taken upon himself the job of coaching the backfield.

The squad itself, presents an array of huskies that should please any coach. These well-fed bruisers range in weight from 145 to 215 pounds, and the squad average is well in the neighborhood of 180 pounds. In actual lineup the first string will be somewhat out-weighted by the reserves, but the "regs" are expected to make up for the lack of weight with some excess speed and punch.

Meets Midland

In the scrimmage with Midland College of Fremont on Tuesday, September 24, the red jerseyed squad got its first real taste of action. Although the count stood 7 to 6 for Midland at the end of the fray, the score does not truthfully tell the story. For the red and black outfit out-downed, out-punted, out-passed, and out-tackled the Midland "Kitties."

Even though the Cards appeared a bit ragged in several places, there were several bright spots in the afternoon's work to cheer Coach Howard. Some of the good work included the punting of Tody Barber, the passing of Captain Bennie Huff, and the excellent tackling of Sales and Getscher. In Huff, Omaha has as sweet a little halfback as a coach could desire. Huff follows his interference like Hawthorne follows a clue and is fast enough so that

Parade Attracts Downtown Crowd

Formation of Five Blocks Displays U. of O. Colors Before Game Starts

A University of Omaha Pep parade, more than five blocks in length, went through the principal streets of Omaha and the downtown district Saturday at noon and seemed to make the citizens of Omaha aware of the fact that there was to be a football game that afternoon.

Every organization on the campus was represented either by cars or "collegiate fillyers." All were decorated with group colors and the conventional red and black of the university.

Band Plays

The new band in natty uniforms of white and black led the parade followed by the official cars in which rode Dr. E. W. Emery, the Pep Squad and other football enthusiasts.

The parade did much to arouse the interest of the people in Omaha and the game scheduled for that afternoon was well advertised.

he is never brought down from behind.

Take to Air

The Cardinals showed that they are capable of taking to the air in case their rushing attack gives out. A pass, Huff to Longmeyer, that was good for twenty yards, was completed with neatness and perfection. However, it was an intercepted pass that gave the tigers their tally; the ol' pighide seemed to be almost in Longmeyer's hands when the Midland half grabbed the apple and raced forty yards for the score.

Boehler was injured on the play, although not seriously. Some of the other casualties that are worrying Coach Howard are "Gramps" Van Dyke and Sedlak, an end prospect. Sedlak suffered a broken leg early in the season, and is out for the rest of the year. "Gramps," however, refuses to quit after acquiring both a bum knee and neck that refuses to pivot.

Needs Support

Taken all in all the squad appears to be in the proverbial pink of condition, and the men are on their toes. With an aggressive spirit, the coaching it is receiving, and the support of both the student body and the civic organizations, the team should go through successfully.

The squad members are: Arthur, J. Barber, T. Barber, Bles, Boehler, Brooks, Claussen, Fraley, Fry, Getscher, Haney, Hansen, Hatcher, Hoover, Huff, Johnson, Kuncelman, Lanspa, Lantis, Longmeyer, McAtee, Mrkvicka, Pat Quinn, Remte, Sales, Sheppard, Stevens, Streitweiser, Tiltson, Thomas, Uhl, VanDyke, and Threadgill.

The first string lineup will probably be composed of the following men:

Right Tackle—Sales.
Right Guard—Boehler.
Center—Hatcher.
Left Guard—Hoover.
Left End—Arthur.
Right Half—McAtee.
Left Half—Huff.
Quarterback—Longmeyer.
Fullback—Sheppard.

Harry: "What did Paul Revere say when he finished his famous ride?"

Mabel: "I'll bite, what did he say?"

Harry: "Whom."

AN ARMY of 65,000

Loyal, Aggressive Employees

AT YOUR SERVICE

THROUGHOUT the history of the world, happiness and progress have been based on Service. No institution in our present-day civilization plays so vitally important a part as do our transportation agencies—and our railroads still are, and must continue to be, by far the most important transportation factor.

That is the reason rail-road men and women generally, are such wonderfully fine people—because they have the knowledge that they are engaged in providing a service that is both necessary and very much worth while. In no other occupation is there greater opportunity for genuine service.

Therefore, it must of necessity follow, that the most successful and progressive railroads are manned by employees who are most loyal, aggressive and progressive. It also follows that those railroads whose employees possess the finest esprit de corps, the highest morale, the greatest loyalty and aggressiveness, automatically become the most progressive and successful.

Missouri Pacific Lines and Missouri Pacific employees both are fortunate. The entire system is manned by one of the finest organizations in the history of the world—and the Missouri Pacific army of 65,000 employees is following the standard of a successful and progressive American institution.

Result—the public benefits almost beyond measure. Every individual in the organization is fully aware of the importance of team work and there are few armies—even military organizations—that can exhibit the singleness of purpose; the effectiveness of concerted attack; the joy in achievement that motivates the Missouri Pacific Lines army.

Shippers and travelers who have discovered these things have benefited and profited. Some have discovered them accidentally. Others have purposely sought to test out the Missouri Pacific Army. Without exception the army has been found ready and willing to accept the largest or the smallest problem of the shipper and the traveler in order that the Missouri Pacific Lines might be of greatest possible service and so live up to the motto that is emblazoned on its banners and written indelibly in the hearts of all—A Service Institution.

The Missouri Pacific Lines Army is proud of its railroad and the railroad is proud of its army. Both seek greater opportunities to be of service.

I solicit your co-operation and assistance.

HURRAY FOR OUR SIDE

We beat Norfolk this year, folks, yes we did. We have a wonderful team this year, folks, yes we have. We have a strong student body ever ready to support the University of Omaha in anything and everything. We have cheer-leaders, a band, and just everything.

Speaking of cheering, one of the Omaha rooters seemed to be suffering from what is called the "Graham McNamee" influence. He had everything there but the microphone. "Get the old chatter goin' out there," he would shout. "Sock 'em, you rough-riders, sock 'em."

The gentleman was not, thank you, a student of this university. He was of the genus commonly known as a "fan," a person who goes to all the games, fights and floods.

During the fray we heard one lone yell for Norfolk and that came from a fond father who wished to be brave and do his bit for his home town. "Hurrah for Norfolk," were the very words he uttered.

"Aw, dry up," snarled the Omaha fan.

And at that point, which is the moral of this tale, the Omaha Graham McNamee lost every bit of his popularity with the University of Omaha cheering section.

Omaha University is sportsmanlike. Win or lose, may we ever remain the same.

WATCH OUT FOR THE JINX

This is a little sermon intended for our football map, our cheering squads, our band, and everyone connected with putting Omaha on the football map this year.

In all sports there exists a little, nonchalant, bit of old Nick himself which goes by the name of Over-Confidence. Let a team win a game and like the horned Beast that Jack mounted, old man Over-Confidence will grow and spread himself so that poor little Student-spirit becomes lost in the rush.

"Fooler," saith the fool at this point. Old man Fooler is the right hand sentinel of Over-Confidence.

The over-confidence jinx has lost many a game which seemed a sure thing to win. A word to the wise is more than sufficient. Watch out for the jinx of over-confidence.
